

Prosecutor to Ask 5-10 Years In Duncan Case

Steffes Would Compel Risjord to Re-Sentence Prisoner
GOES TO HIGH COURT
Wants Sentence Under First Degree Manslaughter Verdict

Madison—(AP)—The state supreme court announced today it would hear arguments June 23 on the request of District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes for a writ of mandamus that would compel Circuit Judge G. N. Risjord to re-sentence Thomas F. Duncan.

Milwaukee—(AP)—District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes announced he would appear before the state supreme court today in his first move to have Thomas M. Duncan re-sentenced to five to ten years in state prison.

Duncan entered the house of correction in Milwaukee county yesterday to begin serving a one to two year term after being found guilty of fourth degree manslaughter in the death of Henry F. Schulte, hit-and-run auto victim.

Steffes said he would place before the supreme court this afternoon a petition for leave to sue out a writ of mandamus to compel Circuit Judge G. N. Risjord of Ashland to re-sentence Duncan, former executive secretary to Governor La Follette, under the first degree manslaughter provision.

At the end of the trial here, June 3, Judge Risjord found Duncan guilty of first degree manslaughter but convicted him only of fourth degree manslaughter because of his good character.

Probable Steps
The district attorney said today probable steps following his petition may be: (1) setting by the supreme court of a date for hearing on the petition; (2) if the court, after hearing arguments, grants leave to sue out a writ of mandamus, the district attorney will prepare such a writ and submit it to the supreme court; (3) arguments then will be heard on the writ, after which the court will grant or deny the writ. If the court grants it, Judge Risjord will be compelled to re-sentence Duncan to the longer prison term.

Steffes revealed that he had asked Attorney General O'Connell to bring a writ of mandamus to the supreme court by letter to join him in the action. The Milwaukee district attorney contends that the manner of Judge Risjord's sentencing of Duncan was unauthorized by law.

"It is unfortunate that this question should arise in this case, but under my oath of office I cannot allow my personal feelings to control me in this or other cases coming before me in my official capacity," Steffes, in his two page statement to the public, issued after he spent 10 days reviewing the Risjord decision, said.

"The court clearly and definitely finds the defendant guilty of every element of first degree manslaughter charged by the state, thus sustaining the position of my office prior to and during the trial."

Employment in the chair factory of the house of correction was the lot of Duncan, who yesterday began serving the indeterminate term of one to two years.

Duncan was registered at the institution yesterday and was issued regulation clothing. He was assigned to cell 3B4.

Won't Seek Rehearing In Tavern Bonds Case
Milwaukee—(AP)—Carl Ladwig, special state counsel, said today the state would not seek a rehearing by the Wisconsin supreme court in the test case involving tavern bonds.

He said he was drafting stipulations for dismissal of more than 300 tavern bond forfeiture cases throughout the state.

The high court held the bonds were not forfeited upon violation of the law but that bonding firms could be compelled to pay unpaid fines.

Leland reported, by leaping three stories from a window of his apartment. Coroner Leland said Dr. Campbell left five notes and that his son, Wallace, ascribed the act to ill health.

Dr. Campbell, former president of the University of California and once a director of Lick observatory, had lived with his wife in the apartment house since his retirement.

Admits Kidnaping, Pleads Not Guilty Of Slaying Child
McCall Arraigned on Two Charges in Florida Court

Miami, Fla.—(AP)—Franklin Pierce McCall pleaded guilty upon arraignment today to a charge of kidnaping James Bailey Cash, Jr. for ransom, a capital offense, and innocent of a charge of killing the 5-year-old Princeton lad.

A special grand jury returned a true bill against the 21-year-old truck driver charging him with the kidnaping and slaying less than two hours after State Attorney George A. Worley, leaving a sick bed, started presentation of the evidence.

Witnesses included James Cash, Sr., the victim's father, and federal agents who said McCall had signed a confession admitting he abducted the boy May 28 for $10,000 ransom.

Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson, who received the indictment and ordered McCall's immediate arraignment, said he would appoint counsel to defend the prisoner and a date would be set for the trial.

Plans were made to start the trial tomorrow if a defense attorney can be assigned. The first designated by Judge Atkinson declined to defend McCall and a second nominee was out of town.

The indictment contained one count of kidnaping for ransom and two counts of murder. One charged McCall killed the boy "by strangling, smothering and choking" him and the second that he caused his death "by means unknown."

Under a guard of 18 deputies, McCall was brought from his cell to the courtroom to plead.

Before his arraignment McCall was reported to have expressed hope he would be sent to the electric chair instead of being given a life term.

Wagner Facing Federal Charges
Prisoner Confesses Post Office Burglaries In Illinois

Chicago—(AP)—Carl Wagner, 34, seized as a suspect in a LaCrosse, Wis., killing, confessed today, Police Sergeant Andrew Aitken said, to burglaries of post offices in Jerserville and Elgin, Ill.

Aitken said the burglaries occurred in December, 1937, and the confession was made when Wagner was confronted with keys from the post office which the sergeant said were found among Wagner's tools.

The tools had been left at a moving establishment to be called for. Aitken said he located them 10 days ago but had withheld the information from the prisoner.

The sergeant said Wagner would be held at the detective bureau until prosecutors decided how the case would be disposed of. Aitken said he believed the federal cases would take preference over the more than 20 safe robberies in Illinois and Wisconsin to which Wagner has confessed.

Among these was the burglary of a LaCrosse chain store Dec. 5 in which Policeman Joseph Donnellinger was killed. Floyd Wagner, Carl's cousin, is serving a life term in the Wisconsin penitentiary and another man is awaiting trial in connection with the case.

Evans Says He Didn't Try to Be Misleading

Judge Declares He Did Not Know Slot Machine Was in Tavern

HAD DEVICE IN HOME
States Tavernkeeper Took It With Promise to Make Repairs

Waukesha, Wis.—(AP)—Municipal Judge David M. Evans, on trial on a charge of perjury in his testimony before a county grand jury, declared from the stand in circuit court today that he had no intention of misleading the grand jurors with his answers regarding a slot machine.

When he told the grand jury that a slot machine he had obtained from the sheriff's department had never been out of his possession, Evans testified today, he meant the machine had never been "put out for any illegal purpose."

Evans said he was angered and rattled by the question put to him by Special Prosecutor Richard J. McCauley, Milwaukee. McCauley, he testified, "wanted to know if I had ever 'set it out.' I told him that is a dirty question. You know better than that."

The jurist declared he did not know Anton Vogt, Brookfield township tavernkeeper, had installed the slot machine in a tavern. Evans said he kept the machine in a recreation room and planned to give guests nickels with which to play it.

Offered to Make Repairs
However, the machine wouldn't work, he went on, and one day he was approached by Vogt who said he could fix it. Evans declared he did not know Vogt had taken the machine from his home until Mrs. Evans told him so later.

Mrs. Evans then took the stand and declared Vogt came to the Evans home to fix the machine but declared he would have to take it with him to make the repairs.

The state rested its case this morning after identification of the slot machine and testimony that Evans appeared before the grand jury and took an oath to tell the truth.

Three deputy sheriffs declared from the stand yesterday that Evans was given a slot machine six or seven months ago by the sheriff's department after it had been confiscated.

Vogt, who pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping and using slot machines, testified he obtained the slot machine from the Evans home but that Evans did not know he got it. Vogt said he kept the machine in a tavern near Highway 50.

Buckman Trio on Journey to Prison
Three Officers of Defunct Firm Leave Milwaukee for Waupun

Milwaukee—(AP)—Louis C. George, vice president, and Edgar C. Holt, secretary treasurer of the insolvent Madison investment firm, B. E. Buckman and Company, left here by automobile shortly after 1 o'clock today for Waupun state prison where they will begin serving terms ranging from one to three years following conviction of selling unregistered securities.

They were escorted by Detective Lieutenant Frank Callan and a driver.

Meanwhile Barton E. Buckman, president of the firm bearing his name, began a similar journey by ambulance from Madison to begin serving a one to three year term on a similar charge. Buckman, who has been ill for several weeks, lost an appeal for a two week stay of sentence yesterday in the circuit court of Judge Walter Schinz.

Buckman asked the stay on the grounds his health necessitated osteopathic and dental treatments.

Judge Schinz ruled Buckman could obtain reliable care at the prison hospital. He is under sentence of one to three years.

Reach Settlement in Wausau Store Dispute
Wausau—(AP)—A nine-month-old dispute between the Winkelman department store and the retail clerks union (A. F. of L.) was at an end today. Terms of the settlement of a strike called last September, signed at a meeting last night, were not disclosed. All but a few union members had returned to work during the nine months, but picketing continued until the agreement was reached.

Suspect Kidnaping in Disappearance of Boy
Pine River, Minn.—(AP)—A theory of possible kidnaping was considered by authorities today as the search continued for 4-year-old Richard Harley Ware, missing from his farm home since Saturday.

Sheriff C. E. Merry said a farmer named Kostenek reported he saw a small child, crying loudly, in a truck that sped past an old mill seven miles north of the Ware farm a short time after the boy disappeared.

Meanwhile, search in the swamp area proceeded with three fresh bloodhounds, brought here from New Ulm, Minn., to replace two LaCrosse, Wis., dogs, working without distraction from exhausted postmen who were called in today.

Martin Stakes His CIO Leadership in War on Opposition

Suspends Five Union Officers as Leaders of Minority Faction

Washington—(AP)—Homer Martin, who left the ministry to become a powerful figure in the CIO, staked his leadership of the United Auto Workers union today on a purge of internal opposition.

Martin invoked his emergency powers as international U. A. W. president yesterday in suspending five of the union's officers for leading a disgruntled minority faction. He termed them an "irresponsible group."

Six others out of a board membership of 24 promptly threw their support to the suspended men.

The next step will be a trial in Detroit before the remaining members of the board.

Four Vice Presidents
The suspension order included four of the union's five vice presidents: Richard T. Frankenstein, Walter N. Wells, Wyndham Mortimer and Ed Hall. The fifth man was George Addes, secretary-treasurer, whom Martin replaced by the temporary appointment of Delmond Garst.

Martin warned the six members who walked out when he read the suspensions that they were laying themselves open to the same disciplinary action. The bolters were Walter Reuther, Tracy M. Doll, Paul Milley, Richard Reisinger, Ellsworth Cramer and Leo LaMotte.

Martin said at a press conference he did not intend to see the union "used as a tool to assist or comfort any alien dictatorships." He added that an "insignificant communist element" had influenced "some unthinking people" in the union.

A member of the suspended faction termed Martin's move a "declaration of war" which threatened to "split the union wide open."

Members on both sides of the issue expressed belief the struggle for control of the U. A. W. might have a far-reaching effect on the whole CIO movement.

Chairman John L. Lewis of the CIO was asked to intervene, and listened to the disputants for six hours Sunday.

Report Floods Take 150,000 Lives in China

Yellow River Waters Spreading Over Northern Honan Province

FARMERS VICTIMS

No Word Concerning Many Japanese Forces in District

Shanghai—(AP)—Japanese military authorities said tonight they believed 150,000 Chinese civilians had been drowned by flood waters of the Yellow river now spreading over a wide area in northern Honan province.

Flood conditions were said to be worst in the Cuzumow area, about 25 miles east of Chengchow, the railway junction which has been objective of Japan's recent offensive, now stalled by the Yellow river's overflow.

Japanese officers here said they had no information concerning the fate of large Japanese forces scattered through the flooded area.

Most of the victims, they said, were Chinese farmers and their families.

Reports from the war zone along the Lughai railway, course of Japan's westward push, said dikes of the Yellow river, known for generations as "China's sorrow," had been broken badly at three main points.

Many Villages Flooded
Chungmow city itself was under three feet of water and scores of villages were inundated.

The Japanese asserted their own army engineers were working day and night to fill breaks in the dikes, assisted by hundreds of Chinese farmers, but the work was hampered by Chinese troops firing on the repair gangs.

At one point there was said to be a break 500 feet wide in the dikes, through which the flood was racing into the low plains.

Even before the Japanese military reports were received engineers familiar with the Yellow river expressed fears one of the greatest catastrophes of the century was imminent.

Chinese reports from the front said the Japanese had been forced to withdraw as far as Kaifeng, 43 miles east of Chengchow on the Lughai railway.

These reports said the boiling Yellow water was 10 feet deep north of Chungmow, about 25 miles east of Chengchow, that numerous villages were inundated, and that the flood

Clergyman Refuses to Conduct Marriage Rites
New York—(AP)—An Episcopal clergyman who said, "I don't care to marry two people of varying social and financial standing," today upset the wedding plans of 18-year-old Andrea Luckenbach, shipping boss, and William Dohbs, 22, butcher and egg salesman and amateur rider.

The minister was the Rev. William Grimes, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, at Great Neck, Long Island, who was to have officiated at the wedding at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The Rev. Grimes denied that either disapproval on the part of Andrea's father, Commodore Edgar F. Luckenbach, multi-millionaire shipping magnate, or fear of a reprisal from his ecclesiastical superiors had led him to decline to perform the ceremony.

"I have a principle," he explained.

Financier Loses Proxies Battle
R. R. Young Defeated in Fight for Control of Chesapeake Corp.

Baltimore—(AP)—The "battle of proxies" for control of the Chesapeake corporation cost Robert R. Young, New York financier, control of the holding company at the annual stockholders' meeting here today, and resulted in a unanimous vote for its dissolution and distribution of its valuable C. and O. railway stock.

Young, conceding weight of voting strength held in stock controlled by the Guaranty Trust company, the nation's third largest bank, made only tactical moves in the last battle involving the middle holding company of the once vast Van Swerincen rail empire.

His opponents succeeded in expanding the board of directors, electing three new members, and winning supervision of actual dissolution of the corporation, which Young himself moved as a desire of the Allegheny corporation, top holding company of the Van Swerincen interests.

One director was elected to fill a vacancy and two new directorships were created. Men opposing Young filled all three posts, Earle Baile, New York investment banker; John B. Hollister, Cincinnati attorney; and John L. Dickinson, Charleston, W. Va., banker.

Five Youths in Vain Effort to Save Friend
East Troy—(AP)—Glen Ravenscraft, 17, Whitefish Bay High school athlete, drowned in Army lake near here last night despite efforts of five young companions to save him. They said he shouted for help while swimming 150 feet from the shore. Two of the boys reached his side, but he slipped from their grasp, as each in turn tried to tow him toward the shore. The pair who attempted the rescue had to be saved by the other three when both were "played out."

Compromise Wage Measure Is Given Approval of House

Senate Group Acts For Probe on Use Of Relief Funds
Would Determine if U. S. Or State Money Influences Elections

Washington—(AP)—The senate audit committee initiated today a proposal that the senate find out whether either federal or state funds are being spent to influence elections.

It voted to instruct the regular campaign investigating committee, headed by Senator Shepard (D-Texas), to make the inquiry.

At the same time the committee rejected a resolution by Senator Tydings (D-Md.) to set up a committee to investigate any complaints that WPA funds were being used for political purposes.

The audit group also recommended that funds available for the Sheppard committee be increased from $50,000 to $100,000.

Earlier senators seeking an investigation of political complaints involving WPA had jockeyed for a compromise acceptable to the administration.

Most administration lieutenants either have been noncommittal or have argued that a committee already created to study campaign expenditures has ample authority to inquire into WPA activities.

Two Proposals
Backers of the separate committee idea were urging administration leaders to accept one of these two alternate proposals:

1. A requirement that the campaign expenditures committee inquire specifically into any allegations that relief workers are engaging in political activity or are being coerced into supporting certain candidates.

2. Establishment of a separate committee instructed to hear complaints of politics in state administration of highway and social security funds as well as any charges against the WPA.

Thorough Inquiry
Senator King (D-Utah) said he would make an independent effort to set up a WPA investigating committee before adjournment. He wants a senate committee to make a thorough inquiry into the administration of work relief funds, without waiting for the filing of specific charges.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), who has fought many administration proposals, asserted in a radio speech last night that there has been "a growing tendency on the part of relief agencies to engage in politics."

Senator Bulkley (D-Ohio) told a radio audience tonight of a committee to hear any charges of politics in the WPA would be of real public value.

Mosquitos Bring Death to 2 Boys; 2 Others May Die
Rockport, Ind.—(AP)—Physicians said today mosquitos, whose bite carries dreaded tropical fever to humans, had brought death to the second time within a week to children of Mr. and Mrs. Lennie Davis, residing near here.

Four-year-old Charles Bernard died first, then 18-month-old Leslie Lee followed. Two remaining children, Lennie, Jr., 7, and James, 16, are in Owensboro hospital with the same symptoms. Doctors hold little hope for their recovery.

Roosevelt Gets Civil Aviation Authority Bill
Senate Also Sends Maritime Labor Board Measure to White House

Washington—(AP)—Legislation to centralize supervision of commercial aviation went to the White House today along with a bill creating a maritime labor board.

Both measures were enacted yesterday after the senate approved them in less than five minutes.

The air bill establishes a civil aeronautics authority to administer control now divided among several federal departments.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), who had worked for five years to revise aviation laws, said the new legislation would take aviation "out of politics." Senator Copeland (D-N. Y.) said it would give financial stability to airlines.

The new authority would consist of an administrator and five board members, appointed by the president with senate confirmation, for six-year terms at $12,000-a-year salary. The president could remove the board members only for inefficiency, neglect of duty, or malfeasance, but could remove the administrator at will. The chief executive would designate the chairman and vice chairman of the authority.

Powers of Board
The board would be empowered to:

Designate airmail routes and sign contracts, work now handled by the postmaster general.

Take over the interstate commerce commission's power to fix airmail rates and all other fares and charges.

Assume all the powers of the bureau of air commerce and probably most of the bureau's 2,600 employees.

Approve all government expenditures for aviation.

The bill to amend the maritime act establishes a three-member board to handle labor problems on ships and on the waterfront, but would not interfere with existing laws or federal agencies. The members would receive $10,000 a year.

Favorable Senate Action Still Required On Bill
G. O. P. MOVE FAILS
Republicans Try in Vain To Block Final Ballot

Washington—(AP)—The house approved the compromise wage-hour bill today. Only favorable senate action was needed to send the measure to the White House.

Speaker Bankhead announced the roll call vote as 289 to 89.

The bill would establish minimum wages for interstate industry starting at 25 cents an hour and gradually increasing to 40 cents in seven years. Graduations and exceptions would be worked out by industry committees.

Different wage standards would be permitted between the north and south but their establishment solely for geographical reasons would not be allowed.

The vote came after Speaker Bankhead had overridden a Republican attempt to block final house action.

Taber's Charge
Representative Taber (R-N. Y.) claimed senate and house members who met jointly and drafted the compromise of bills previously passed by the house and senate "clearly exceeded their authority" by turning out the measure they did.

He asserted the bill was out of order but Bankhead disagreed.

Chairman Norton (D-N. Y.) of the house labor committee called for approval of the compromise. She asserted it was the "best wage-hour bill ever brought before the congress."

"It will do more for the underprivileged and underpaid of this nation than any other law ever enacted," she added.

The south's chances of obtaining pay differentials in the wage-hour bill may depend on President Roosevelt's choice of an administrator for the far-reaching program.

Senator Ellender (D-La.), who led the fight for a flexible wage scale, said today it would be possible for the administrator to interpret the act in such a way as to nullify many of the sectional factors which otherwise might help determine wage minima.

Senator Walsh (D-Mass.), expressing the northern viewpoint, said Ellender's statement was particularly true in connection with classification of industries by boards which will fix the scales.

Would Classify Units
These boards will be empowered to classify the units within each industry and to establish varying wage minima for each classification, but "no minimum wage shall be fixed solely on a regional basis."

Walsh contended this eliminated all chance for geographical differentials. Ellender, on the other hand, said he believed the word "solely" meant that geographical considerations could be brought in to play, but that additional factors must be considered.

The bill directs the boards to study transportation, living and production costs. Ellender said this would divide the units in an industry more on a sectional basis than by size.

Administration Important
Representative Ramspeck (D-Ga.), who helped draft the compromise bill, agreed with Ellender and

"In all three groups," he told the Advertising Federation of America, "are exceedingly active and aggressive war-makers who want no peace unless they can dictate the terms."

"Some of these," he continued, "are hard-headed zealots who honestly believe that government or management or labor must boss the economic system. Some are narrow-minded, unscrupulous self-seekers who, in their desire for power or money, are ruthless enemies of any opposing private or public interest."

Report 150,000 Dead in Floods

was two and three feet deep at several points where it crossed the Lugal railway.

Urges Only Preliminary

Engineers and relief workers familiar with the destruction that can be wrought by "China's sorrow," as the stream is called because of its frequent floods, said the present upsurge was only preliminary to the heavy flow that normally is not at its height until mid-July.

Deliberate destruction of the dikes, which in many places confine the river to a course above the level of the surrounding country, by Japanese artillery fire and airplane bombing, and by the Chinese themselves to impede the invader, was said by these experts to be largely responsible for the present overflow. However, there have been heavy rains, too.

Lack of dike maintenance in recent months while battles raged on the banks of the big stream was believed to have aided breaks in other places.

Might Strike Anywhere

John Earl Baker, at present head of the international Red Cross relief work here and formerly investigating engineer for the Yellow River commission, said the course of the flood might strike anywhere on a rough line between Chengchow and Suchow, then into the Grand Canal and along the old bed of the river through North Kiangsu province to the sea.

The old river bed entered the sea 200 miles south of the present outlet on the other side of the Shantung peninsula.

This course would sweep across much of the area now occupied by Japanese troops and lines of communications established.

Shantung campaign to cut the west Lunghai railway for an advance upon Hankow, China's provisional capital, 300 miles south of Chengchow.

Baker emphasized, however, that the course of Yellow river floods never could be predicted with certainty.

Bodies of Crash Victims Removed From Wreck Site

Brought From California Mountains by Mule Pack Train

Yosemite, Calif.—(P)—Bodies of all nine victims killed when a TWA airliner crashed into a mountain-side March 1 were brought to Wawona early today on a mule pack train which plodded by night through 20 miles of treacherous snow country.

Hearse took the bodies to Fresno.

Members of the search party said the only part of the plane recognizable were parts of the fuselage and tail surfaces. All of the rest was smashed to bits. The plane did not burn.

A ground crew of 35, led by H. O. Collier, 23-year-old Fresno man who discovered the wreckage Sunday, came upon the shattered ship yesterday. The wreckage and the bodies lay within 100 feet of the top of Buena Vista crest, a 9,750-foot mountain.

Struck Pine Trees

Flying blind in the night through a snowstorm, the plane struck and sheared off three pine trees. It plunged 300 yards further.

Four sacks of mail were intact. A fifth was broken and letters were scattered about.

Co. C. R. S. Jay of Madera county swore in a jury of nine men and held an inquest that lasted five minutes. Collier was the only witness. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

The coroner said all bodies had been identified.

TWA officials in the party issued a statement declaring the accident was due to "no failure of the plane or its equipment."

Spanish Loyalists Try to Check Advance of Fascists In Drive to Seize Valencia

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier—(P)—The Spanish insurgents' sweeping drive down the Mediterranean coast today pushed government defenses five miles south of captured Castellon de la Plana to the banks of the Mijares river.

Government troops dug in on the south bank of the river in a desperate effort to hold up the insurgents' advance toward Valencia, 40 miles south of Castellon, until new fortifications can be completed in a mountain chain barring the way to the former capital.

The ridges of the Sierra de Espadana and Sierra del Cid form a natural defense parallel to the Sagunto-Teruel highway and about 10 miles north of the road, a vital government communications line.

The insurgents' capture of Castellon and its port, Grao de Castellon, gave the insurgents their first good port on the eastern Spanish coast and widened to 40 miles the seaboard wedge they drove at Vinaz, between Castellon and Barcelona, last April 15.

Prepare for Drive

The ancient and once-thriving port of Castellon is at the northern tip of a coastal plain leading to Valencia. Access to it poised insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces for the final phase of their drive on Valencia.

While two insurgent columns penetrated to the center of Castellon, other Franco forces deployed around the city and continued south, hastening the flight of civilians.

Streams of foot-sore refugees poured into Valencia, many bearing wounds suffered in insurgent air raids. The migration emptied some villages in the path of the insurgents.

Castellon Taken

Castellon, founded by James the Conqueror in the thirteenth century, fell yesterday when insurgents completed its encirclement with capture of Grao.

Within an hour the first houses on Castellon's outskirts were captured and a bloody three-hour battle through its streets began. Insurgent infantrymen, hugging the walls of old stone houses, slipped

The following citations from the Bible were included: "Behold the Lord God will come with strong hand, and his arm shall rule for him; behold, his reward is with him, and his work before him. He shall feed His flock like a good shepherd: He shall gather the lambs with his arm, and carry them in his bosom, and shall gently lead those that are with young. Behold, O God our shield, and look upon the face of thine anointed. For the Lord God is a sun and shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee."

Madison—(P)—The state public service commission authorized the Ahanapee and Western and Kewaunee, Green Bay and Western railroads today to discontinue all passenger service.

Britain Not Planning Retaliation in Sinking of Ships in Mediterranean

London—(P)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of commons today that Britain planned no retaliatory action because of the bombing of British shipping in the Mediterranean but was trying to work out a system of safety zones to end the attacks.

In his eagerly awaited statement at the first session following parliament's Whitson recess, Chamberlain said two proposals had been made which "might go some way toward cessation of these attacks."

The first proposal for the establishment of safety zones in certain harbors, which "although it presents considerable difficulties is being actively investigated," the prime minister said.

The second plan, he continued, was proposed Saturday by the Spanish insurgent government that "a port in Spanish government territory should be selected outside the zone of military operations for the use of British ships, which could enter or leave it unhindered."

Faces Critics

Chamberlain spoke to a puzzled and critical house. During the four

June Is Favorite Month For Lover of Wildflowers

BY CLARA HUSSONG

If a popular vote were to be taken to determine the favorite month of the year June and October would certainly get the greatest number of ballots. Under normal weather conditions these months are the pleasantest and most picturesque in the calendar, June because of the lush green of trees and grass, the variety of color in wildflowers, and October because of the brilliant colors of the foliage.

To the wildflower lover June is perhaps the favorite of the two. It is during this month that some of our best loved flowers come into bloom. One which is common all over the state and known to everyone is the wild rose. Thirty years ago when the school children chose the state flower the violet came out on top with the wild rose a close second. A number of years later a national flower was chosen and this time the wild rose scored.

Wild Flag Popular

In Wisconsin we have seven recognized species and several hybrids growing wild. The two most common ones are the meadow rose and the pasture rose. The meadow rose and the sweetbriar are two which have "gone native," that is, they have escaped from gardens where they were originally introduced. You will know the English sweetbriar by its flattened thorns and by its aromatic foliage.

Along streams or in low pastures you can begin looking for blue flag, or wild iris. The fragrance of the wild iris is not as cloving as that of the garden varieties. No garden iris, no matter how brilliantly colored will ever take the place of the common blue flag for those of us who know and love the wild plant.

Another member of the iris family blossoming at this time is the blue-eyed grass. This grassy little plant bears numerous blue flowers, each blossom living only a single day. Don't attempt to make a bouquet of these blossoms, they close as soon as they are taken out of the sun. Blueeyes grass is common in fields, on sandy hillsides and along railroad tracks.

Wild forget-me-nots are often found in moist ground along streams. The larger kind with the sky blue petals and yellow center is said to have been brought here by German immigrants, later to become as naturalized as the German housewives who brought over the seed. I saw large beds of them a few days ago along the banks of the Kewaunee river and its branches.

Forget-Me-Not

We have a native forget-me-not also, a tiny species which is easily overlooked among showier flowers. One look at the diminutive blossom will tell you that it is unmistakably a forget-me-not. It is most often found in sandy or rocky ground. A few days ago I found some growing between the ties of a railroad track.

Several legends have been handed down explaining the naming of this flower. A popular one tells of a German youth walking along the Danube river with his sweetheart. She exclaimed over the beauty of the blue flowers growing on an island. He swam out and attempted to return to her. Before his final disappearance in the water he threw the flowers at her feet, crying, "Forget me not."

No account of June flowers would be complete without mentioning the aristocrats of the wild, our native orchids. Yellow lady slippers have been blossoming since May in sunny places but they can still be found in cool damp woods. After you have discovered these plants in their native haunts it will not be hard for you to know just the sort of place in which they grow.

For Identification

Besides the yellow variety, which is the most common one here, we have several other lady slippers. There is the large, showy variety which bears a white slipper touched with crimson in front, a small and a large white lady slipper and a curiously shaped variety known as "ram's head." The pink moccasin flower belongs to this group also. Most of the "slippers" are found in cool tamarack cedar bogs.

Other orchids blossoming in June are the showy, round-leaved Hooker's and green orchids. We have also arethusa or wild pink, and several trilliums, and coral roots. Some are not beautiful to the eye but all are vastly interesting to the naturalist because of the intricate ways they are constructed to insure cross-fertilization. All orchids are protected in Wisconsin.

Many times flowers are sent to me for identification and I am glad

Mrs. Fred Brown will entertain the Ladies' Aid society of the Lutheran church at her home Thursday afternoon.

The Young People's choir of the Congregational church will practice to perform this service if a stamped envelope is enclosed for an answer. If the plant, including leaves, is first pressed and then placed between two cardboards which are held together by paper clips, it will reach me in much better condition for examination than if it is merely slipped in between the folds of a letter.

Funeral Services Held For Francis Bassette

Deer Creek—Francis Xavier Bassette, pioneer of the town of Deer Creek, died Friday at his home here at the age of 92 years. Born in Marquette, Ontario, Canada, Aug. 1, 1845, he went to Cossack, N. In 1873 Mr. Bassette returned to New York where he worked three years, then he returned to Wisconsin where he followed the harness trade for 15 years.

In 1891 he came to the town of Deer Creek and bought the farm where he lived until his death. Four years later he married Emma Sharrow of Fond du Lac. Surviving are the widow, a son, Frank, and a daughter Babbion.

Aldermen Propose PWA Project for Remodeling School

Proposal Includes Construction of New Police Station

Remodeling of Lincoln school so that the building may be used as a city hall and construction of a new police station under PWA was approved by the public buildings and grounds committee at a meeting yesterday.

The committee's recommendation will be studied by aldermen at 7:30 Wednesday evening in city hall. If the council approves, the mayor and city clerk will be authorized to sign an application for a PWA grant totalling 45 per cent of the estimated cost of the two projects, $35,000.

Raymond N. LeVeque, Appleton architect engaged by the council, offered plans and specifications for the two projects together with the proposed remodeling of the fire station and the present city hall.

Alderman Franzke, chairman of the committee, said today that modeling of the fire station and city hall was rejected because of the excessive cost at this time. He said both could be considered later as a separate project.

Alderman Steinhilber's suggestion to move the police department into the water works building on Walnut street and to move the water office into the new city hall seems to have been shelved or forgotten. A council committee met with commissioners to discuss the proposal but the commission has given no official opinion on the suggestion.

Largest Carnival in World Holds Opening Here; Closes Sunday

Ferris wheels carried nervously delighted occupants up into the dark sky, strong-voiced barkers proclaimed the wonders of their respective shows, and youngsters bobbed up and down on the merry-go-round as the Ruben and Cherry Exposition, world's largest carnival, opened last night on Memorial Drive showgrounds.

The carnival, presenting a midway with a cost of $700, will close Sunday night. Motorcycle riders who drive their machines at top speed around a circular wall, a 227-pound turkey, midge auto rides in which collisions are actually encouraged, and a scare house with uncertain floors and black corridors are among the show's features.

The carnival is being sponsored by Winnebago Voltaire, 40 et 8.

Facts About Man's 'Cooling System' Are Revealed in Medical Studies

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor

San Francisco—It takes only one highball to warm your fingers, but at least three to warm your toes. These curious facts about man's "cooling system," the action of the skin of face, hands and feet in regulating his temperature, came to light in medical studies shown today at the American Medical association's scientific exhibit.

New methods of diagnosis, particularly of troubles often mistaken for varicose veins, have come from this study. The experiments were exhibited by three Mayo foundation physicians of Rochester, Minn., Bayard T. Holden, Charles Sheard and M. D. Williams.

In a little more than five minutes after a drink the skin of the face warms up, getting rid of heat from metabolism of the alcohol. In 10 minutes the fingers get warm. That is all the work the "cooling system" has to do for one highball.

Eating a meal has exactly the same effect, except that the time is much slower. The Mayo experiments showed that finger temperatures start a rather sharp, quick rise in about an hour and a half after a meal. What kind of meal seems to make no difference.

The toes also rise in temperature after a meal, provided nature has to call on them. At about 68 Fahrenheit, for example, only the fingers are likely to warm. But at 75 the toes too will give off heat.

There is no change in blood pressure accompanying these temperature rises, the physicians stated. It was suggested that the warming effect of highballs on the feet ure appeared likely to encounter house opposition. They were a $212,000,000 appropriation for parity payments to cotton, corn and wheat farmers and $1,000,000 additional for the rural electrification administration. A joint committee approved both proposals before reaching a final agreement late yesterday.

Representative Woodrum (D-Va.) said President Roosevelt opposed the $212,000,000 farm outlay, but other leaders declared they had informed the chief executive the house would approve it by a three-to-one margin.

Final Appeal Although administration chiefs decided to sidetrack legislation to give financial aid to railroads, senate sponsors made a final appeal to the finance committee to consider liberalizing RFC loans to the carriers.

The house passed yesterday a bill to create a separate unemployment insurance system for rail employees. It was supported by labor organizations but opposed by representatives of management. Senate sponsors sought to bring it up in that chamber this afternoon.

The house rules committee called a meeting today to decide whether to grant preferential status to a bill compelling government contractors to comply with the national labor relations act.

Creates Stir John L. Lewis, CIO chieftain, created a stir on Capitol hill yesterday when he virtually established temporary headquarters in Speaker Bankhead's office and discussed the legislation separately with three members of the rules committee.

Republican Leader Snell declared in a statement that Lewis, who CIO unions contributed $500,000 to the Democratic campaign in 1936, "believes that those who pay the fiddler are entitled to call the tune."

"Next we shall see the sepaer's office moved down to CIO headquarters," Snell added, "with the Democratic congressmen being summoned there to learn Mr. Lewis' wishes."

Buying Is Confined to Minimum Measured by Current Needs

Dullness continues unbroken in all departments of the steel and iron market, with no sign of change within the immediate future, says Steel.

Buying is confined to a minimum, measured by current needs, and no accumulation of inventory is being done. Volume of orders in June matches closely that of May and April, with a slight downward tendency.

Shipments of finished steel by the United States Steel Corp. in May were 485,081 tons, a decline of 7.2 per cent from April. Cumulative shipments for five months this year were 838,953 tons less than in the comparable period of 1937.

Steel production shows little variation, the national rate last week being unchanged at 25.5 per cent, with indications of continuing at close to that figure this week. Pittsburgh mills increased activity 1.3 points to 19.3 per cent, Youngstown 4 points to 23 per cent and Buffalo 2 points to 23 per cent. Chicago lost 1 point to 22 per cent, the lowest rate since 1934. Eastern Pennsylvania also declined 1 point to 25.5 per cent, Birmingham 11 points to 38, New England 2 points to 25 and Cincinnati 6 points to 16. There was no change at St. Louis at 39.3 per cent, Detroit 18, Wheeling 38 and Cleveland 31.

Carbuilding program by the Pennsylvania, covering more than 1,000 units, gives some hope to eastern steelmakers, but part of the steel may be taken from supplies now on hand so the tonnage to be brought is problematical. Approval of the Southern railroad cars, involving some 80,000 tons of steel, is still withheld and the belief is growing that it may be postponed.

Public works of various kinds continue to furnish almost the only important tonnage in the structural and reinforcing markets. Placing of 8800 tons of shapes for an addition to the government printing office in Washington leads in size. Union Pacific has placed 2425 tons for bridges and Tennessee valley authority has let 1500 tons of steel transmission towers and 1200 tons of shapes for a powerhouse.

Purchase of scrap tonnage by European consumers, as high as 350,000 tons of No. 1 and No. 2 heavy melting steel being involved, shows how far scrap has receded, the price being reported as $10 and $8.50, respectively. I. A. S. is about half the figure paid for large tonnage in the middle of last summer and about $5 under the second purchase in the fall. This gives dealers a small margin over the New York price and practically none over the Eastern Pennsylvania market. Some scrap at tidewater, held up by difficulties of Japanese credits, may be shipped on these contracts, which call for deliveries over three months.

Ingot Production

Steel ingot production in May was 1,806,805 gross tons, 6 per cent less than the 1,925,166 tons made in April and 65 per cent less than the 5,151,909 tons produced in May, 1937. Percentage of capacity engaged was 30.39 in May, 33.44 in April and 88.79 in May, 1937. Average weekly production was 407,837 tons in May, 448,757 tons in April and 1,162,939 in May, 1937.

Automobile production regained in part losses of the preceding holiday week. Assemblies totaled 10,175 compared with 26,980 in the week ended June 4, and 11,900 in the week ended June 12, 1937. General Motors produced 17,700, compared with 15,650 the week before; Chrysler made 6195, compared with 5475; Ford, 11,775 compared with 2000, and Independents 4505 compared with 3855.

Expected announcement of third quarter prices on galvanized sheets has been delayed beyond expectation and buying is being held at a minimum until uncertainty is removed. An adjustment similar to that in other flat-rolled products is expected. Books have not yet been opened for third quarter on ferro-manganese, but no change is expected in the present price.

Prices Steady

On the low rate of buying now prevailing prices do not assume much importance and are steady. Last week the composite of iron and steel was unchanged at $38.38 and the finished steel composite at $81.70, a slight adjustment at Chicago the composite of steelworks scrap lost 4 cents, to $10.71. This is the lowest since July, 1935.

Cable advices from London are to the effect that the European steel cartel probably will be renewed, the Belgian group having solved the difficulties that had stood in the way. Announcement is expected in a short time.

Hearing Ended on Labor Charges at Fond du Lac Firm

Fond du Lac — (P) — The national labor relations board hearing of charges of unfair labor practices against the Sanitary Refrigerator company, began May 5 with Carl Ludwig of Milwaukee as trial examiner, ended yesterday. The board offered 60 exhibits, the defendant company 70 and the American Federation of Labor 4.

Charges were filed by the steel workers organizing committee (CIO), Attorney A. G. Goldberg, Milwaukee, denied yesterday that the company "interfered" with the AFL union at the plant and declared sentiment for the CIO at the plant was waning. He advised an election to determine which union should have bargaining rights.

William Considine, NLRB attorney from Washington, D. C., said in his final argument the plant officials attempted to "emasculate the CIO union."

Tyrrell Testifies In Claim Against Hatten's Estate

Expert Says Signature "Executed in Manner Foreign"

Waupaca — Dr. John F. Tyrrell, Marquette university handwriting expert, testifying in the $31,000 claim of Mrs. Beatrice Monsted, New London, against the estate of the late William H. Hatten, wealthy New London lumberman, this afternoon said that the signature of Hatten on a $25,000 note held by Mrs. Monsted "is not what I consider his authentic writing. It was executed in a manner foreign to that employed by Hatten."

Mrs. Monsted claimed that Hatten signed the note in appreciation of hospitality shown him. The remainder of her claim is for $6,000 for room and board. The adjourned hearing was resumed yesterday before Judge A. M. Scheller in county court.

Dr. Tyrrell this morning identified the words "to be taken from my estate" on numerous photographic copies of business papers of Hatten as being written by him. Similar words are alleged to have been written by Hatten on the note held by Mrs. Monsted.

Testimony this afternoon may bring out whether Hatten wrote the words "to be taken from my estate" on the note.

Dr. Herbert W. Powers, Milwaukee psychiatrist, yesterday testified that Hatten was mentally incompetent at the time he is claimed to have signed the note for Mrs. Monsted on Jan. 21, 1937.

Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer, New London, testified Hatten apparently was incompetent at times between 1935 and 1937. Mayor E. W. Wendland, New London, testified that once when he thanked Hatten for a $10,000 gift to the city for a park, Hatten denied having made the gift.

Others who appeared on the witness stand yesterday were Dr. G. A. Ritchie, Appleton; Dr. Lyle Roberts, Clintonville; and Ben Hartquist of the Hatten Lumber company, New London.

New London — In a hard fought 8-inning battle, Bordens eked out a 2 to 1 win over the Knights of Columbus in an industrial softball league game at the Washington high school grounds last evening.

Each side got but four hits and none were good for more than first base. The milkmen committed four errors to the K. C.'s two, the latter scoring their only run on three errors in the fifth inning.

Red Smith reached third base at the start of the first on his single and another by Greg Charlesworth but got no farther.

One of two walks allowed by Charlie Nader, K. C. pitcher, combined with an error in the fourth frame to give the Bordens squad the first run. Two hits and an error in the extra inning turned the game to the milkmen's favor. Nader fanned 10 and walked two, Leonard Hoffman for Bordens whiffed seven and allowed no walks.

League players were warned not to wear spiked baseball shoes for industrial league softball games because of the danger to players. Tennis shoes are preferred. Players with spiked shoes will not be allowed to play in the future.

TETHISTA RIDES WITH PAUL REVERE

Another brilliant star has been added to the galaxy of government builders and nation savers.

He will take his place alongside the Old Doc, Technocracy, the Alberta Credit Plan, and line up with the German Socialists that ruined democracy with printing press money although they made every German a billionaire even if they did forget to stop bread from going to 2 billions a loaf.

Our new hero has formed what he calls Tethista and, bravely facing a "world seething with unrest," takes off his coat, rolls up his sleeves and starts "socio-economic reconditioning." No one ever seems to have suggested that it is about time to recondition our more or less famous bunch of cure-allists.

Tethista sounds as though a university education was wasted on someone. It wouldn't be the first time big words snapped out like commissars bite off their wisdom for the masses, are found wanting. As a prelude the statement is advanced:

"Now, it is to be expected from the recent techno-economic developments which enlarged the power of the multitudes for self-assertion, the war of the participations for personal and collective socio-economic security is in full swing. Every weapon of control of ideology and action is resorted to for positive or negative ends, in the unceasing aids and conflicts between the animal automata and the intellect."

The writer of that declaration must have witnessed a terrific conflict between the intellect and the animal automata and one in which ideology spread its thick blanket over action for the benefit of the countless millions.

Enclosed with the introductory letter Tethista sent the Post-Crescent a laboriously worked out chart entitled "The definitive plan of the Integral State" which, as claimed, summarizes "the valid realities of government and of other corporations of adjustment in their true functional relations." It looks somewhat like a work sheet that Professor Einstein might have used in figuring out the theory of relativity. And while it declares that "only a few in the know may lead" it leaves the impression that only robots or other mechanized instruments can successfully participate. It might be a splendid idea if men were like motors and did what they were directed by certain buttons and levers to do. Wouldn't it have been a better idea to start out making them that way before inflicting upon them "The definitive plan of the Integral state?"

The heavy labor that has been performed upon this new plan of perfect government was not merely inspirational. It has been worked out, we are told, over a period of 28 years, done according to the "recorded and observed events" in relation to "the expanding frontiers of individual and collective knowledge and skill."

Sending these charts to "a chosen few" and to "enlightened writers" the hope is indulged by the author that cooperation may result "in the program of reorganization of the juridic structure of all nations, in order to permit peaceful progression within a positive framework of techno-ethic thought and praxis." But if we are to reach out to other nations and alter their "juridic structure" we would prefer instead of this chart an army of about 5 million men and at least half a million airplanes.

The author, however, is not frightened by what might appear to others as practical necessity and casts upon the heaving waters of time the hope that enough men and women of all nations "to whom the truth has been revealed" may be ultimately "synchronized in a mighty and sustained effort to clinch within the organizations of the adjustments, the spiritual and material conditioning for peace," with the warning that "when the integral intellect advocates, the animal automata seize control."

We are inclined to place Tethista on the shelf with Technocracy as its nearest neighbor and without benefit of moth balls. These ideas which as a people we seem to survive are never in danger from moths. Insect larvae cannot survive such notions.

But they are a sign of the times. Pain and distress bring to the surface many well intentioned people who are going to put men and women into a certain mold and have them built alike, talk alike, and act alike, and all this in spite of the fact that heaven never made any two alike.

And while those who probably took a master's degree at the university bring forth such misshapen things as the offspring of their intellectual endeavors might not the desirability of building more structures at the University at a cost of additional millions in taxes upon the people be looked into for a possible veto?

MRS. GRIEBL AND THIS AMERICA

Sometime ago Dr. Griehl, a naturalized American of German birth, sailed hurriedly to Germany after being subpoenaed to appear before a special grand jury at New York that was inquiring into spy activities in this country. The doctor was in such haste to get out of the country that he forgot his passport, his baggage and his wife.

And it is around the latter important article, the present case arises.

The government arrested Mrs. Griehl as a material witness. It asked the court to place her under bond to appear. The court fixed her bail at $5,000.00. Her inability to furnish it meant a prison cell to which she was immediately assigned.

There is nothing new in our jurisprudence about making witnesses give bail when the authorities have good reason to believe their sympathies are against the prosecution and that they may handily pass out of the jurisdiction of the court. If any of our states has not already enacted legislation permitting this sort of arrest it is not only backward but careless in failing to provide the prosecution with a just weapon against a hostile world.

But now there steps out of apparent seclusion one Seward Collins, editor of the American Review and former editor of the Bookman, who says he never even saw Mrs. Griehl before and has no interest whatsoever in the pending prosecution. Mr. Collins went to court with $5,000.00, the bail, in his pocket. He plunked the money down on the desk. He declared it was his own money. He said he advanced it in Mrs. Griehl's behalf because the authorities are holding her "as a hostage for the return of her husband," which Mr. Collins denounced as barbaric. He likewise compared the treatment of Mrs. Griehl to "the practice of torturing relatives of accused persons in Stalin's Russia." Mr. Collins appears to be consistent in his thoughts and actions because upon a prior occasion he hailed out demonstrators for Sacco and Vanzetti, Red killers. It perhaps is surplusage to remark that Mr. Collins, were he a resident of a totalitarian state, would be duly chastised in some pronounced manner for throwing himself before the government's steam roller in these investigations.

We may view Mr. Collins' conduct as a little premature, to put it softly. We may consider that his heart is running away with his head. We may conclude even that so far as the bail money is concerned he is walking along a high balcony in his sleep. But in a country of law Mr. Collins must be considered within his rights. If the government places Mrs. Griehl's attendance at court as worth $5,000.00 and Mr. Collins wants to pay that sum for her non-attendance that, we may say, is his privilege.

Still it is a rank mistake for people who do not approve every step of a prosecution to jump in the middle of the road and try to flag down the oncoming train.

Until there is excellent proof to the contrary there should develop a confidence that the prosecution in all criminal cases is actuated by good motives. This would more likely transpire were the public familiar with the difficult hurdles which every prosecution must overcome. Certainly these obstructions should not be increased.

None of us can know what evidence the government has. All of us should know, however, that investigations of the nature prevailing at New York are instigated for the public welfare. Mr. Collins seems to have forgotten that Dr. Griehl ran away when asked to give evidence. Flight is almost always confession. Neither is it extreme to suspect that the wife of a fugitive may sympathize with her husband and follow his example.

But this is America. And anyone who wishes to put up the $5,000.00 as bail in some particular case where he thinks arbitrary action is taking place, has that privilege.

And if he hasn't the $5,000.00, or is too canny to put it up, he may still, publicly and privately, protest against the government's action.

JUSTICE TO A WISCONSIN POLITICIAN

On the statute books of Wisconsin there is a crime known as first degree manslaughter. It is a crime of which a farm boy or a shoe clerk can be convicted, but not a political big shot like Thomas Duncan, executive secretary to Gov. Philip LaFollette.

Last March this governor's secretary got himself stinking drunk and drove his car at a high rate of speed over forty crowded blocks in Milwaukee. He sideswiped a number of cars and killed Henry F. Schuette, a retired business man. Duncan did not stop after any of the accidents. Eventually he was arrested as a drunk driver. A half empty whisky bottle was found in the car. Only after his arrest was he identified through the license number of his car, as Schuette's killer.

Duncan alleged that the Milwaukee judge to whom his case was first assigned was prejudiced against him and Judge G. V. Risor of Ashland was called to hear the case. There was no jury. The judge heard the evidence that Duncan had been drunk and in the summing up said he believed it. The judge also heard some fancy medical testimony introduced by the defense. He said he had a reasonable doubt that the explanation of Duncan's conduct was to be found in the illness which two doctors on the state's payroll said he suffered from.

Having thereby proved to everybody's satisfaction that Duncan was guilty of manslaughter at the first degree, the judge softened the charge to slaughter in the fourth degree. The penalty for the first crime is imprisonment in the penitentiary for from 5 to 10 years. The sentence which Duncan actually received was imprisonment in the House of Correction for a term of 1 to 2 years.

To have let him go scot free would, no doubt,

CONSUMER COMA

A hearing on the possibility of reducing the retail price of cream in the Appleton-Twin City area was held last week at the courthouse with farmers, dairymen and grocers present. Not one consumer, you know, the guy that pays the bill, was in evidence. It was suggested that the public was apparently satisfied with present prices and wasn't interested in seeing 3 cents lopped off every half-pint of coffee cream.

One of the dealers said the "consumer is the forgotten man." I dunno, but it seems more likely that he's the "forgetting man."

I never knew until recently that: They're building a huge ski slide at Peninsula state park . . . where there's one potato bug—there's usually another one. . . . Automobile salesmen were using College Avenue to demonstrate the riding qualities of their cars. . . . Tobacco auctioneers and train announcers were related.

A Verse for Today

IN THE CANDLELIGHT

We dream in candlelight,
And the harsh toll the years
Have taken, disappears.
Your eyes are young and bright,
And lamplently and fair,
Gold glimmers in your hair.

Your love is candlelight,
Erasing all the signs
Of years! The weary lines
Of care fade from my sight,
And in the candle glow
Of love, there is no woe!

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, June 12, 1928

With the passive aid of President Coolidge and the active assistance of almost the entire Coolidge wing of the Republican party, Herbert Hoover had been assured of Republican nomination for the presidency at Kansas City, Mo.

William Blohm, Anton Peterson, Charles Larson, Henry Schultz and Harry Korotew, delegates from the Neenah area of Eagles, were to leave the following day for the state convention at Ft. Atkinson. George Seitz and Charles Blank, both state officers, were to accompany them.

Clement D. Ketchum, instructor in physics at Appleton High school, was to be in charge of a special camp for 50 Appleton boys during the cherry season at Sturgeon Bay July 10 to Aug. 15.

A new $150,000 hotel opened its doors at Clintonville that day. It was financed wholly by business men and citizens of that city and was long a civic movement.

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, June 17, 1913

The eighth annual convention of county clerks of the state was in session at the courthouse.

William Harper, dean of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, tendered his resignation to President Samuel Plantz.

Many changes were reported in the markets that day. Flour took a big jump of 30 cents a barrel and middlings ground feed and bran advanced $1 a ton in price. In the vegetable line, string beans were selling at 15 cents a pound, wax beans at 20, new carrots at 10 and new potatoes at 5 cents a pound. Live spring chickens were bringing 20 cents a pound.

The Fourth Grade girls of St. Joseph's school were entertained Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Frances Hammes. Games were played during the greater part of the afternoon. Those present were Clara Alm, Cecilia Spielbauer, Mary Kampf, Julia Quell, Cecilia Trembl, Annie Banhik, Laura Doerfler, Laurine Brill, Catherine Pesky and Leona Walter.

There have been a bit too raw, but a comfortable cell to be followed by pardon or parole when the heat passes seems well within the probabilities. In this connection it may be noted that a few weeks before the trial opened the Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation, which controls all of Wisconsin's state offices, voted its confidence in Duncan and sent him an expression of its sympathy.—Chicago Tribune.

The average factory wage in Brazil is approximately $11.05 per month, while the average wage of persons employed in Brazilian commerce and trade is approximately $12.38 a month.

Gradual elimination of the running board of motor cars and increased use of pressed steel bodies and chassis frames are recent developments in the British automobile industry.

Diabetes is a common disease and is more prevalent in modern cities than in primitive communities. Most sufferers are from 50 to 60 years old.

The income which farmers in the United States receive from meat animals represents about 25 per cent of their entire cash income.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SHOULD BE DOCTORS

In an article here in February "The Dentors Pull a Bone" I deplored propaganda sent to the press by the "Dental Institute of America" (which I suspect is a paper project) which encouraged waiting a few days to treat what is popularly known as "ulcerated tooth." I said such a policy is bad surgery, and that immediate treatment is always best—immediate the treatment being the extraction of the tooth, incision of the gum to drain the abscess or opening thru the tooth to drain the infected root canal.

April 6 the question was discussed again under the title "Ulcerated Tooth Again." The day this article was published a young man came to the office of a dentist (he calls himself dentist) with his face badly swollen. The dentist told the patient it was an abscess and that the tooth should be extracted at once. The young man said he had just paid a dentist two dollars for examining it and advising that nothing could be done to relieve him until the swelling went down.

Whereupon the dentist handed the young man the paper and asked him to read the article by Dr. Brady. "Yes, I've already read that," the nurse down at the plant showed it to me," he replied.

The dentist took X-rays of the young man's jaw, found the first molar abscessed, the second and third molars evidently broken down, with dead pulps, but not acutely abscessed. He extracted the three molars, required the patient to return daily for four days, finally discharged him well, and grateful to guess whom. The dentist extracted the three molars painlessly, by first injecting novocain so as to "block" the inferior dental nerve.

Extraction of a tooth, abscessed or not, is not a minor or simple operation, but one that requires every care and consideration and every post-operative care a surgeon would give after any operation. Unhappily for the public, dentists are doctors in name only—and how!

I don't care whether all the dentists or for that matter all the doctors in the country like it or not, I shall continue to agitate for reform in medical education. Every person who seeks a license to practice dentistry ought to have a general medical training and the degree of M. D. as an indispensable foundation. And even such dispirited technical instruction as may be necessary to qualify him for the special field he elects.

This reform must come eventually. It is absurd and inexcusably wasteful and extravagant to maintain separate institutions for educating physicians and dentists—then to allow both to use the title of "doctor" to attract trade.

Less than a hundred years ago there were no dentists except doctors. How many more years must the public endure, and pay for, the incompetence which this irregular narrow biased, altogether contemptible Yankee scheme of education fosters in its finished (?) product?

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — Perhaps you remember her in some tropic twilight on the beach at Waikiki, with a blossom in her hair. . . . You have seen her, I know, smiling at you from the Matson steamship line ads, in Vogue, in Colliers, in many, many other magazines. . . . If you have been to Honolulu you may even have seen her dance, for she is half-Scottish, and half-Hawaiian, and dancing is her business.

You may even have glimpsed her hurrying into a shop on Fifth avenue, on one of those curious, endless shopping excursions which seem eternally to occupy the minds of young ladies. . . . But if you are really lucky. . . . If you are one of those to whom refreshing and enchanting things sometimes happen, you will have wandered into the Hawaiian room at the Lexington and seen her dance those ancient, native hulas of Hawaii. . . . You will have seen her in a raffia made of ti-leaves, which she keeps every night in a tub of seawater. Because the ti-leaves are fresh and they are not placed in water they will die. And, seeing her, you will have hailed the first passing waiter and inquired her name.

Let me beat the waiter to it. Let me tell you her name. It is Pualani, which in the land beyond old Diamond Head, means "Flower of Heaven."

They say she is the most photographed girl in the Islands. . . . Ray Kinney told me about her last year. . . . And then he went back to Honolulu to build his orchestra and arrange for the presentation of old guerd dances and hulas and fine tropic entertainment. . . . When he returned Pualani was with him. Pualani and two other girls, Napua (The Flower) and Mapuana (Warm Caress). Napua is considered one of the finest swimmers on the island; Mapuana is a dancer, and her mother is a famous singer. It is these three who do the ancient guerd dance, a throbbing, rhythmic chant against a background of thumping drums, high strings, and male voices.

After more than my rightful share of hours whiled away in this atmosphere of hurricanes and tropic bowers I am reminded of a coincidence in realism which first touched Fredric March some years ago when he did "The Royal Family" and thereby caricatured the eccentricities of John Barrymore. He was so perfect in the role that the wars were going around saying, "Barrymore gets more like March every day."

And that's what I mean. If things keep on the way they have been, The Hawaiians will have to come to New York for their native atmosphere, instead of New Yorkers boarding planes and ships for the Pacific. Indeed somebody, after a visit to Honolulu, may very well crack: "Strike me if Hawaii doesn't get more like the Hawaiian Room every day."

There is a restaurant on the east side in Manhattan where clovers are included in the flower decorations on each table. If you find a four-leaf clover in your flower vase, you automatically become the management's guest for dinner.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Just about every year somebody comes out with a tabulation to show that Americans are living on the fat of the land because they have 1700 telephones for every one they have in Afghanistan or Tibet, and as many as all the rest of the world put together.

Telephones are always computed per capita. This gives the United States a whopping edge, for the latest tabulation coming to us indicates there are 18,433,400 telephones in this country. That is about one for every seven persons, more or less—that is, more or less persons, not more or less telephones.

Now 18,433,400 telephones is a lot of numbers to call and it is the proud but honest boast of the telephone company that any one of these telephones can telephone any one of the other 18,433,339 at almost any time of the day or night.

But when a party is hunting a telephone while stranded on a dark country road it is no pleasure to know that out of every seven has it. He wants to know how many there are per square mile of dark countryside and what his chances are of finding one. That, statically, is different.

The same tabulation by which we were informed that the United States has 18,433,400 telephones (it is even more by now, we were cautioned), also informed us that England had 2,791,597 and Japan 1,197,129.

That is far fewer telephones than in the United States—per person. But one a square mile basis it leaves the United States far less happy.

Closed For Holiday

England has an area of 94,272 square miles, about the same as one of our hotly contested midwestern states. And when you spread 2,791,597 telephones in such an area it means one telephone every little way, not to mention the pub on the corner. All in all, it measures 28.5 telephones per square mile, which is something better than we could calculate for the United States.

Japan has 261,832 square miles to be covered by its 1,197,129 telephones, or 4.5 telephones per square mile.

Now the United States has to cover 3,628,789 square miles with its 18,000,000 odd phones, or six to the square mile. Moreover, it is no comfort to the stranded vacationist to know that he may find them in clusters of two or three in a house or even six on one desk.

What he wants is one telephone, with a telephone book hung on a string nearby containing the number of the nearest garage. And the chances are when he gets the call through—which he will be prompt enough if it is possible—he will find the garage closed for the night and not opening tomorrow because of the holiday.

The Senator's Night Gown

At this point we will record evidence of some old-fashioned non-conformity in Congress in the person of Senator Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan. On a recent date he wrote to the Hotel Olds in Lansing, saying:

"Gentlemen: When I was in Lansing April 24, I left some laundry, and said I would call for it. I forgot it was a holiday. Would you please mail it to me 262 Senate Office Building here (Washington). I also left a white night gown in the room. If your maid picked it up would you send it also. Old fashioned night gowns are such a rarity in these pajama days that the loss is more serious than the intrinsic value. I suppose I am one of the few left who cling to this old fashioned luxury, but since we wear pants all day, I like a change at night."

He got it. It was sent him by mail. C. O. D. 90 cents.

A solemn procession in which the blessed sacrament is carried will be held at 7 o'clock in the evening. Miss Lorraine Hermen who is attending the Marquette School of Nursing at Milwaukee is spending her vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Hermen, E. Main street.

"Vivacious Lady" Will be Shown for Chinese Relief

Two more days remain to buy tickets for the motion picture, "Vivacious Lady," which will open Friday at the Rio theater and will be sponsored by the Red Cross and the United Council for Civic Relief in China.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the committee headed by Philip Jacobs, heads of Appleton service clubs, representatives of the Red Cross, the King's Daughters and at various Appleton business places. The only tickets which will benefit the fund will be those sold before the picture opens Friday.

Co-starring two of the screen's leading favorites, Ginger Rogers and James Stewart, the picture offers a brilliant and up-to-date romance of film-makers. It is the story of the love affair of a night club entertainer and a studious young professor. The action takes place in a sleepy little college town.

The money collected by the committee will be used to purchase food, clothing, medicine and shelter for destitute victims of the undeclared war in China. It has been pointed out that one American dollar will clothe, feed and house one refugee in China for a month. The funds will be administered by a committee of American business men appointed by Nelson T. Johnson, American ambassador at Hankow.

The Dog Owner and His Dog

BY ALLAN KERR

Owners of a grand old breed of sporting dog, the American (or brown) water spaniel, will be happy to learn that their favorite hunting companions have "at long last" joined the ranks of officially recognized canines. After careful investigation and study of blood lines and individuals for several generations, the Field Dog Stud Book, oldest registering body in the United States, has accepted the American water spaniel as pure bred.

Although a popular breed nearly 50 years ago, this fine working spaniel has fought an uphill battle, and it is not unlikely that the action taken by the Field has saved the species from gradual extinction. It is a fact that western breeders have kept accurate records of matings and pedigrees over a period of years, as only through this information was recognition by the Stud Book made possible.

Due to tardiness in getting organized, American spaniel breeders have a big job ahead; for the demand for a hunting dog of like size and similar utility has brought the spritzer spaniel into great popularity during recent years. Perhaps there is plenty of room for both.

Lists Officers

Directors of the American Water Spaniel club which has adopted the following breed standard approved by the F.D.S.B., are D. O. Scanlon, Nashville, Ill., president; Marc Woodruff, Des Moines, Ia., vice president; P. F. Potter, Phoenix, Ariz., secretary-treasurer; Charles Shelberg, Lugerville, Wis., and T. L. Camp, San Antonio, Texas.

Assessment Protests For 1938 Should Be Lodged With Boards

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Property owners who are dissatisfied with the 1938 assessment placed on their real and personal property by their local assessors were counseled today by the Wisconsin Taxpayers alliance to bring their protests before local boards of review during the next few weeks.

Local boards of review, the alliance reminded local taxpayers, meet in towns and villages at the town or village hall on June 27, and in cities in the council chambers on July 5.

The tax organization pointed out that taxpayers who do not protest their assessments before the meetings of the local review boards lose all right to protest personal property assessments "and seriously jeopardize any chance of carrying a hearing on real estate assessments to the tax commission or the courts."

Assessment rolls are open for examination in towns and villages on the last Monday in June, and in cities at the city clerk's office prior to the meeting of the review board.

the alliance explained, adding that the assessor is not obligated to give notices of increases of assessments.

MONTGOMERY WARD

Railroad Unions Display Power, Lawrence States

Pressure of Blocs Controlling Many Votes Manifest in Congress

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Group power—the pressure of the blocs which control large numbers of votes—manifests itself as every session of congress draws to a close. But there has been no exhibition of group pressure quite so sensational as that which the railroad labor unions have been able to exert in preventing the passage of legislation which would have permitted the R. E. construction Finance corporation to lend money to the railroads so that they might avoid receivership.

Lawrence

Bluntly, the situation is that the railroads insist they must reduce wages so as to get out of the red, but the railroad unions say this must not be done and no government funds can be forthcoming if any such plan is contemplated. So, congress being afraid of the railroad brotherhoods and the latter already having received assurance from President Roosevelt that no wage reductions are necessary, nothing is done.

Last-minute efforts to get something done for the railroads have been made, but the solution of the whole problem is not forthcoming. Possibly it lies in letting the railroad brotherhoods have their way, keep their wages from being cut, and letting the holders of railroad securities get their interest payments from the government. This would be a subsidy which is quite in line with the New Deal philosophy as it applies to other groups of citizens. But, in this instance, the subsidy is inevitable because the president and the congress want wages subsidized. The only question is where the money is to come from, and presumably the source might be the same one from which farmers' payments and other spending programs are to come—out of the dim and distant earnings of taxpayers of future generations.

Work Not Done
After all, there is really little difference between paying farmers for not planting corn and paying railroad workers for work not done. According to one of the Interstate Commerce commission reports, the payments in the year 1937 by the railroads to their employees for work not done amounted to about $198,000,000. The wage increases of 1935 and 1937 added $320,000,000 per year to the payroll costs, so that the total subsidy which the railroads have been compelled to pay amounts to about $518,000,000 a year or enough to cover the total interest charges for the railroads and pull most of them out of receiversships.

Now it could be conceded that the railroad employees deserve these increases, but it cannot be conceded that capital will continue to be supplied for any business which borrows at a fixed interest charge and then doesn't pay the interest on its bonds. The wage increases and the payments for work not done are directly and indirectly the responsibility of the federal government, so that the subsidy to pay for them can as logically be a federal subsidy come out of the federal treasury.

Some of the leaders of the railroad brotherhoods have been talking about government ownership of the railroads, which means, of course, that there will be bigger and better subsidies to be paid out of general taxation. In the last 24 hours, all sorts of efforts have been made to get some kind of compromise worked out, but each time the railway labor executives have held the veto power, and what they say is done. The bondholders—being to no small extent the many educational institutions, savings banks, hospitals and life insurance companies—have nobody here to represent them, certainly nobody in the White House, so the drift of the railroad situation is bound to be worse rather than better. The courage to tackle the whole problem on an economic basis is lacking because politics holds sway.

Antiquated Laws
"Work not done" is one of the abuses of the whole railroad operation. Laws requiring that payment be made on the basis of 100 miles as a day's work, a standard adopted 50 years ago, when trains were very slow, are still in evidence. They are to be found alongside a series of uneconomic practices which cannot be estimated as to cost. Thus, the rules require that two men must do the work of one on Diesel engine cars. Then there are additional wages, due to "full crew" laws and limitations on length of freight trains in certain states, and technical regulations such as paying a full day's pay to workers for the twelve minutes required to take an empty train out of the terminal at the Pennsylvania station in New York to the yards about three or four miles away.

Similar uneconomic rulings require that a gasoline car run on railroad tracks should have four or five men, whereas a gasoline car run on ordinary highways is usually operated by one man.

Under circumstances like these, with political power supreme and congress afraid to tackle questions of this kind, the subsidy method is perhaps the political way out—at least for the time being, until the American people discover the meaning of group pressure and organize a people's bloc.

Plan Services to Lay Cornerstone At Neenah Church

Select Sunday, July 17, as Tentative Date for Program

Neenah—The erection of the new $55,000 First Methodist Episcopal church will be inaugurated in July when the cornerstone will be laid in the base of the tower in a distinctive ceremony, church officials announced today.

The tentative date for the ceremony is Sunday, July 17, but the date will not be definite until it is determined whether Bishop R. D. Macgoe, St. Paul, Minn., will be available to conduct the services. It originally was planned to hold the ceremony earlier, but church officials decided that it would be held over until a temporary floor could be installed. Bishop Macgoe also wouldn't be available for the originally planned date.

Other church dignitaries, including the Rev. Ira E. Schlagenhauf, Appleton, district superintendent, will be present for the laying of the cornerstone.

At Foot of Tower The cornerstone will be placed at the foot of the tower on the W. Doty avenue side of the church about eight inches from the ground. By the time the services are held, the limestone walls will have been partially erected so that a temporary floor can be placed on which rays will be placed for the congregation.

Despite unfavorable weather conditions, rapid progress is being made in construction. Laying of limestone for the walls will start this week, the foundation already having been completed. Approximately 10,000 square feet of limestone blocks will be needed to build the walls and face the remaining wall from the former structure which is to be removed.

Three walls remained standing and in good condition when the former church was destroyed by fire Nov. 17, 1937.

With about four stone layers and three helpers working on the job, it will take a little more than two months to complete erecting the walls. The foundation was built to a height level with the ground.

It is expected that by the time services are held the stone work on the walls of the church, with the exception of the 55-foot tower, will be nearly finished, and those taking part in the ceremony will have an idea of what the church will look like when it is finished. It is expected that construction will be completed so that services can be held in the church on Thanksgiving day.

Pickard Named To Ripon Board

College President Announces Election of Neenah Man as Secretary

Ripon—President Silas Evans announced at Ripon college's seventy-second annual commencement yesterday that a building and expansion program would be started soon. Proposed buildings, he said, are a five-section dormitory for men, a new women's dormitory, a new heating plant, an annex to the gymnasium, a new student dining hall, and an intramural sports field.

One section of the men's dormitory would be ready for occupancy in September, 1939, President Evans said, with other buildings being added as funds become available. The college received cash gifts of $86,735 last year, the president disclosed.

COLLECTS PAPER NAPKINS AS HOBBY

Ever since she was 8 years old, Marie Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Parsons, 603 Oak street, Neenah, has collected paper napkins as a hobby and she is shown above looking over some of the more interesting ones in the collection which once numbered 1,000. Most prized in the collection are two napkins given Marie by Mrs. George Steffensen of Neenah. One bears the print of the Doty cabin and the other a print of the old Russell House. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Girl Who Collects Napkins as Hobby Finds Old Designs are Prettiest

Neenah—There are hobbies and hobbies but perhaps none so unusual as the one of Marie Parsons, Neenah High school junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Parsons, 603 Oak street, who collects paper napkins and at one time had more than 1,000 in her collection.

Marie started her odd hobby about eight years ago when she was a little girl and waited for her mother to return from parties with "one of those pretty napkins" as Marie called them. Whether the paper napkins were the reward for being good while her mother was away for the afternoon or evening, Marie did not say, but she began saving the napkins and as she saved, her interest in collecting them grew.

Choicest among her collection are two old napkins given her for the collection by Mrs. George Steffensen, 412 E. Franklin avenue. One of the napkins has a print of the Doty cabin on it, picturing the cabin in the Fox River where it originally stood. The other napkin has a picture of the old Russell

House which stood on the corner of E. Wisconsin avenue and S. Commercial street, where the National Manufacturers bank is now located. Russell House Print

The napkin bearing the print of the old Russell House is also inscribed with these words, "Compliments of the Neenah Eagles Club, free lunch every Saturday night, Otto Metz, chef." The one on which the Doty cabin is shown has inscribed on it, "Compliments of the Neenah Printing company."

One Halloween napkin brings back to Marie the memory of her first Halloween party which she never attended because, while en route to that party with a group of other little girl guests, Marie fell and received a bad cut on her eye and was taken home. The napkin was later presented to her by her hostess, Dallas Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell.

One of the napkins collected last summer was secured at Callendar, Canada, where Marie went with some friends to see the Dionne quintuplets. The napkin has pictures of the five small Dionnes on it.

Party Napkins

Napkins from wedding parties, Valentine, Easter, Christmas and New Year's parties are also among the collection but the 1,000 napkins have decreased to a small number now because moving days, the ban of housewives and husbands alike, was the direct cause for the loss of a great number.

Marie has been interested in not only that during the years of her collecting paper napkins, the quality of the crepe paper and the designs have changed, exceedingly. While the crepe paper from which the napkins are made is much better today, the designs are simpler and not as pretty as years ago.

Although she will be a senior in high school next fall and feels that perhaps she should put away childish things, such as collecting paper napkins as a hobby, Marie still likes to add to her collection and spends a little more time than necessary when on a shopping errand for her mother because of the fascination of the counters in the stores where the napkins are displayed.

Menasha—Appointment of committee members for six committees for the Menasha Garden Club's rose and peony show to be held in the grill room of Hotel Menasha Saturday afternoon and evening, featured a special meeting of the club at the hotel Monday evening. As the season of roses and peonies is considerably advanced, it was decided to accept all flowers in season for display. The show is non-competitive, Mrs. Ida S. Watkins, secretary of the club and publicity chairman for the show, pointed out, and the beauty of the flowers is the only qualification for entry.

300-EGG CHICKENS

St. Paul —(7)—Poultry breeders searching in vain for a 300-egg strain of chickens have been told by a University Farm extension specialist that even the best breeding flocks are not speedily reaching that goal.

"It is well known, too," she said, "that such individuals do not have offspring of such high production to a very marked degree."

Only 38 of 4,788 hens trapped under supervision of the Minnesota Poultry Improvement board produced 300 eggs.

The committee action served to reduce to a minimum the chances that the bill, approved by the senate in a different form, would reach the statute books before adjournment.

Plan Services to Lay Cornerstone At Neenah Church

Select Sunday, July 17, as Tentative Date for Program

Neenah—The erection of the new $55,000 First Methodist Episcopal church will be inaugurated in July when the cornerstone will be laid in the base of the tower in a distinctive ceremony, church officials announced today.

The tentative date for the ceremony is Sunday, July 17, but the date will not be definite until it is determined whether Bishop R. D. Magee, St. Paul, Minn., will be available to conduct the services. It originally was planned to hold the ceremony earlier, but church officials decided that it would be held over until a temporary floor could be installed. Bishop Magee also wouldn't be available for the originally planned date.

Other church dignitaries, including the Rev. Ira E. Schlagenhauf, Appleton, district superintendent, will be present for the laying of the cornerstone.

At Foot of Tower
The cornerstone will be placed at the foot of the tower on the W. Doty avenue side of the church about eight inches from the ground. By the time the services are held, the limestone walls will have been partially erected so that a temporary floor can be installed on which seats will be placed for the congregation.

Despite unfavorable weather conditions, rapid progress is being made in construction. Laying of limestone for the walls will start this week, the foundation already having been completed. Approximately 10,000 square feet of limestone blocks will be used to build the walls and face the remaining wall from the former structure, which is on the W. Doty avenue side. Three walls remained standing and in good condition when the former church was destroyed by fire Nov. 17, 1937.

With about four stone layers and three helpers working on the job, it will take a little more than two months to complete erecting the walls. The foundation was built to a height level with the ground.

It is expected that by the time the services are held, the one work on the walls of the church, with the exception of the 55-foot tower, will be nearly finished, and those taking part in the ceremony will have an idea of what the church will look like when it is finished. It is expected that construction will be completed so that services can be held in the church on Thanksgiving day.

COLLECTS PAPER NAPKINS AS HOBBY

Ever since she was 8 years old, Marie Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Parsons, 603 Oak street, Neenah, has collected paper napkins as a hobby and she is shown above looking over some of the more interesting ones in the collection which numbered 1,000. Most used in the collection are two napkins given Marie by Mrs. George Steffensen, Neenah. One bears the print of the Doty cabin and the other a print of the old Russell House. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Girl Who Collects Napkins as Hobby Finds Old Designs are Prettiest

Neenah—There are hobbies and hobbies but perhaps none so unusual as the one of Marie Parsons, Neenah high school junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Parsons, 603 Oak street, who collects paper napkins and at one time had more than 1,000 in her collection.

Marie started her odd hobby about eight years ago when she was a little girl and waited for her mother to return from parties with "one of those pretty napkins" as Marie called them. Whether the paper napkins were the reward for being good while her mother was away for the afternoon or evening, Marie did not say, but she began saving the napkins and as she saved, her interest in collecting them grew.

Choicest among her collection are two old napkins given her for the collection by Mrs. George Steffensen, 412 E. Franklin avenue. One of the napkins has a print of the Doty cabin on it, picturing the caber in his hand. The other napkin has a picture of the old Russell House which stood on the corner of E. Wisconsin avenue and S. Commercial street, where the National Manufacturers bank is now located.

Russell House Print
The napkin bearing the print of the old Russell House is also inscribed with these words, "Compliments of the Neenah Eagles Club, free lunch every Saturday night, Otto Metz, chef." The one on which the Doty cabin is shown has inscribed on it, "Compliments of the Neenah Printing company."

One Halloween napkin brings back to Marie the memory of her first Halloween party which she never attended because, while en route to that party with a group of other little girl guests, Marie fell and received a bad cut on her eye and was taken home. The napkin was later presented to her by her hostess, Dallas Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell. One of the napkins collected last summer was secured at Callendar, Canada, where Marie went with some friends to see the Dionne quintuplets. The napkin has pictures of the five small Dionnes on it.

Rash Plays Sometimes Are Best

By ELY CULBERTSON

The average bridge player, sitting as spectator behind an expert, often is horrified by the "rash plays" said expert makes. Indeed, it is not unusual for the average player to mutter under his breath: "Expert, my eye!"

Yet, the very plays that cause the horror are apt to be the best plays possible under the circumstances. Consider East's apparent brutality toward his own queen of trumps in the following hand:

The bidding:
East South West North
1 club 2 spades Pass 2 no trump
Pass 3 spades Pass Pass

East may have had his own reason for bidding a club first, instead of a heart, the more normal bid. South's jump overall was stretched. He had the requisite three and one-half honor tricks, but not the eight sure winners that two more tricks overall indicates. North held the bidding open once with two no trump but, when South failed to jump to game, North decided that his own singleton spade was a very bad feature and discreetly retired.

West opened the club ten. Down my ducked, East won with the ace and returned a low club. Declarer won and laid down the ace and king of trumps. East, after careful thought and with an eye on his partner's nine spot, deliberately played the spade queen underneath the king! He had come to the conclusion that this unblocking play could not cost anything and might be highly profitable. If the jettisoning of the queen cost a trick it would surely be compensated for by the fact that East would avoid being thrown on lead with the queen and forced to make a ruinous return. As may be seen, East's reasoning was 100 per cent correct. After the unblock of the queen, declarer was helpless. A third spade lead was won by West, who returned the ten of hearts. The jack covered, and East won with the queen. East laid down the club queen, as a safe exit card. Declarer ruffed but eventually had to concede two more tricks, and with them the loss of his contract.

Now let us see what the result would have been if East had hung on to his spade queen. The third round of spades would have thrown East on lead. Then, when East laid down the club queen as an attempt exit, declarer could make him a gracious present, discarding a heart. East then would be forced to a fatal lead. A club would go into dummy's established suit; a diamond would give declarer a free finesse and, finally, a heart lead would confine the defenders to one heart trick. Thus, in all, declarer would have held his loss to two club tricks, a spade and a heart, and fulfilled his contract.

My Neighbor Says—

The only way to exterminate the rose bugs that are now destroying roses, peonies, syringas and grapevines, is to drop them into a can of kerosene. The more you get rid of now, the less you will have next year.

When buying sheets, always allow at least 10 inches on each side and top and bottom, as the bed will never stay neat in sheets that are too short.

Old Gardener Says:

Chrysanthemums, which have come to be among the most popular garden perennial, need a little attention from time to time throughout the season. Many kinds are inclined to become too tall, the height interfering with the number of blooms. For that reason, pinching out the tops once or twice in June is recommended. It is a good plan, also, to apply a little extra plant food this month. A tablespoonful of a balanced fertilizer mixed into the soil around each plant is suggested. It is well to remember that the fertilizer must be applied evenly. It does not spread of itself but is washed downward to the roots by the rain.

Dirndls in Vogue

America has the dirndl fever this year. You see some evidence of it here in a beach coat of blue and white cotton printed in Scandinavian pattern. It's ready to step out on the sands with a big white straw hat and cork soled sandals.

Fear Sometimes Prevents Children from Speaking

By ANGELO PATRI

"The teacher is going to leave Harold back this term, in kindergarten, because he will not speak. He has not said a word in class all term. At home he talks plenty. He is bright. He has a good vocabulary, but he simply refuses to open his mouth before strangers or in school. We have punished him every way we know how. He promised to talk in school, but when the time came he would not speak. What is going to be done in kindergarten while his companions are promoted?"

This child is six years old. He is intelligent and he does his work well except for oral recitation. He has been punished continually because he does not recite. His mother thinks he is stubborn; that is, she thinks he has set his will against hers and that of the teacher and will not talk. That is not true. Fear prevents the child from talking. For some reason he was afraid to speak when he got to school. Some children are frightened to find themselves among so many other children and grown people. They have lived alone, in the close family circle, and suddenly they are surrounded by strangers. Other children are afraid to make a mistake, so they keep still. If anything is said or done to frighten the child still more he is strengthened in his desire to hide himself behind silence. Punishing such a child is about the worst thing that can be done.

From the beginning he must be encouraged to believe he is among friends. Say nothing at all about talking. Call on him: smile at him kindly; pass on. Assign a friendly, motherly little girl to look after him, and pretty soon, if they are let alone, he will talk to her.

The teacher must go out of her way to make him feel friendly to her, and to get him to feel her friendliness toward himself. If she pats him on the shoulder as she passes him, stops at his seat and says a word of encouragement or

Physical Check-Up Advisable

By ELSIE PIERCE

You'll want to get into the trim before getting into the swim of course. That means not only reducing if you need to, where you need to, but in addition it is well to have a physical check-up. This is particularly advisable if you plan to spend the summer at a distant mountain or shore resort or camp. Even if there is to be a physician in the vicinity, you probably prefer to have your own family doctor give you a clean bill of health. Have a dental check-up, too. This double check-up is recommended for children preparing for camp. It is just as sound advice for adults.

Right Down to Feet

It is a source of real satisfaction to know that you are fit; that heart and lungs are perfect so that you are permitted to swim and exercise; that you are in good health because, before all, that is the essential ingredient for "have a good time."

That done, you'll want a beauty check-up, too. You ought to have a permanent and if you are contemplating one soon the first step is to get your hair in good condition. The healthier the hair, the greater the chances for a perfect wave.

You'll want a waterproof makeup, rouge that won't melt, powder that will keep, mascara that won't run or smudge, lipstick that will remain indelible.

You'll want a superfluous hair remover for use under arms, on legs and arms.

You'll want a deodorant or non-spirant.

You'll want a sunproof preparation, of course.

And sun glasses.

You'll want your toes pedicured and tinted to match your fingertips; you'll want your corns and callouses removed. So, start immediately to get yourself in trim, because there are quite a few details to attend to before you really get into the swim of summer fun.

My complete booklet, Care of the Hair (Booklet 203) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to The Bell Library, c/o this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

A B C'S IN MANNERS

1. In expressing appreciation, is it better to say thanks or thank you?

Answer: Thank you is always better than thanks.

2. When a young lady enters a car with a gentleman escort, is it good manners for her to open the door?

Answer: If he is a gentleman he will certainly hold the door open for her. And yet, if it is her car and she is used to getting in on the driving side, she is very likely to open the door unthinkingly from force of habit—before he has time to reach it and open it for her. In other words, he ought not to be criticized by someone who sees him let her open the door herself. (By the way, do not use the expression "gentleman escort." The combination of gentleman and escort is no better than the tabu "gentleman friend." In your sentence you might have said young lady and young gentleman, which would have been typical of the school room of fifty years ago. Otherwise, the mistake of centering on the silence it will grow stronger because the child learns that he is doing wrong and that he is being punished for that wrong-doing. That feeds his fear. Help him to forget his trouble and the fear dies.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Wonders of Beaver Life

II—QUESTIONS ABOUT BEAVERS

All sorts of questions come to us as we think of beavers at work as woodcutters. Why do they want to tell the trees? What kinds do they most often cut? What are some of the records made by beavers in cutting thick trunks? What do they do when a tree falls against another tree instead of to the ground?

Most trees felled by beavers have trunks from four to 10 inches thick. There are, however, some cases in which the trunks have been from 18 to 20 inches thick, and a record cut has been reported by Enos Mills, a widely known naturalist.

"The largest beaver-cut stump I have ever measured," says Mr. Mills, "was on the Jefferson river in Montana, near the mouth of Pipestone creek. This was three feet and six inches in diameter."

It is not hard to tell when a tree has been cut by beavers. The marks of their teeth are plainly to be seen. The teeth, by the way, keep growing, and that is the only reason they are not destroyed by the hard labor to which they are put.

Beavers have three reasons to cut down trees—to use parts of them for food, to build dams, and to get material for their homes.

Beavers often place their home or "lodge" at the edge of a pond or stream, but sometimes it is a good many feet from the shore.

Sticks, twigs, tree branches and logs are employed in making the framework of the lodge. These are plastered with mud, layer after layer, and with sod. The animals use their forepaws to put the mud in place.

At last the lodge is finished. Each beaver family has two rooms. One room is a storeroom for food. The other is a "living room," above the water surface.

Girls Sometimes Pay Too High A Price for Pleasure

By DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 20 years old. I have had a good upbringing by fine parents who have taught me to lead a clean moral life. Now here is my problem: I am in love with a handsome young man and we both work in a large office. In this office the girls get themselves engaged to a man and from then on lead a most enjoyable existence. They go to dinners, they go to shows, have a few drinks and finally spend the evening at a hotel. This happens on an average of about once a week, generally on payday nights. These girls and boys figure that they are too poor to get married and that they might just as well take life as it comes and enjoy themselves. My fiancé wants me to do as the other girls do, but I just can't bring myself in line. The girls tell me that I am crazy not to. A circular letter sent around by the manager to the male employees about a week ago stated: "Any undomesticity on the part of the employees will be the cause of instant dismissal." I like my job very much. And I like my boy friend very much better. I am sure that a thing like this would be wrong, but these office brides have plenty of good times while I have none.

Answer: Did you ever think, my dear, that you can pay too high a price for pleasure, and that one, single, solitary good time may cost you the happiness of a lifetime? Yet that is one of the cruel truths of life. And it is exactly what will happen to you if you listen to the pleas of the man who is trying to lead you into the downward path and follow the example of the loose-living girls in your office.

Maybe they do have a "grand and glorious time" in getting drunk and prostituting themselves, but unless they are as hardened as any woman it with the best knowledge that they have lost their own

OCTAGON HOUSE BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far: Assey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating yesterday's murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quannaset. She was killed by a left-handed blow from her sister's knife and Pam Frye is suspected. Pam disappears after hiding $50,000 worth of ambergris. Assey learns that Marina's marriage to Jack Lorne was a fraud because she was already married to Tim Carr, boarder at the Frye's Octagon House. She also played around with Roddy Strutt, whose plane crashed conveniently the night of the murder. Before the eyes of Assey, Jack and Peggy Boone, an artist, the barn burns down. Realizing the fire was set by someone who wanted to discover the location of the ambergris, Assey prowls around the woods. He finds Tim knocked out and then Tim finds Assey knocked out. Pam's father is missing.

Chapter 26 Menaces

"I DON'T like this," Tim said. "To me this smacks of foul play. What do you think?"

"We'll go back to the house," Assey said. "Most likely Aaron Frye is there, safe and sound. If he isn't here, he must be there. It's my idea that the trooper followed you to the house and probably they escorted Aaron back. Look, while you're on the topic of foul play, what were you hunting so hard in the Lorne house and neighborhood? An' why did I get told so much folderol last night?"

"A little bird," Tim did his best to maintain his innocent tone. "Tells me you already know. You do."

Chapter 27 Menaces

"You don't mean that you believe me, do you?" Tim sounded incredulous.

"Yup," Assey said. "For one thing, I don't think you're the sort of person who'd swab Pam's knife to do your murderin' with. An' for another thing, you're not the person no bird would tell me one I played back at 'em. An' you don't look you know what you're sayin'."

"You feel that one of the birds," Tim said, "is the murderer?"

"If he ain't," Assey said grimly, "when this little game has got more complications than I like to see."

Kaukauna—Last year's officers of the Holy Cross church Holy Name society were re-elected at the June meeting of the group Sunday morning. The re-election was an innovation in the customs of the society, which formerly kept officers for only 1-year terms.

Gregory Vandenberg will serve his second term as president of the group, James W. Lang as vice president, and Lawrence Kroll as secretary. Elmer Maue will continue as treasurer.

Plans were made to have a continuation of the reception of monthly communion during the summer, though no business meetings or breakfasts will be held until September.

Three coats of the material will be applied and one coat of wax placed on the floor. The work is expected to be completed this week. No church services are being held in the building while the work is being done.
